

New Hampshire Humanities and the Currier Museum of Art invite you to a special program featuring the writing and photography of veterans who participated in a March workshop led by Pulitzer Prize-winning war correspondent David Wood and international photo journalist Andrea Bruce.

What does it mean to fight for your country? Who is a combatant and who is an innocent? What is it like to come home again?

Veterans came together to reflect upon these questions and how to express in words and images their own experience of war and homecoming. Please join us on May 23 for a public reception and program featuring veterans reading from their works in progress and showing their images on a big screen.

A Reading & Slideshow

Wednesday, May 23, Currier Museum of Art, Manchester
Reception: 5:30 pm to 6:30 pm in the Currier's Winter Garden
Program in the Currier auditorium: 6:30 pm to 8:00 pm

Veterans: FREE

Regular Admission: $10

(Admission includes access to the museum galleries and a catered reception with cash bar)

Register Now

We look forward to seeing you on May 23!

Photo credit:

Freedom, Appreciated by David Gagne