MOAA-NH Chapter's Mission

- To promote the aims of the MOAA stated in the By-Laws of that Association
- To further legislative goals and objectives of MOAA
- To encourage and facilitate camaraderie among our membership
- To provide useful services for and to protect the interests of members, their dependents, and survivors

Mass Casualty Situation

The general definition of a mass casualty situation is one in which an incident or incidents overwhelm the medical resources, personnel, equipment, and supplies available to respond to these events. In many parts of the US and around the world, this is exactly what is happening with Covid-19 cases that result in hospitalization and deaths. For anyone who has ever been in the military, especially medics, this is a familiar situation in which they have been trained to respond in a rapid fashion. Incident commanders are taught to assess the overall situation, respond to limit further casualties, triage patients, and treat and transport victims as rapidly and effectively as possible with the resources they have on hand. In the "old days," for combatant commanders, this was called the "come-as-you-are war." From the medical perspective, this means that you use the treatments you have on hand, not those that need a randomized, prospective, double-blinded study that may or may not give you the result you're looking for in two-to-four years.

For much of the last several months, the US health system has been responding to the surge of Covid infections and hospitalizations in much the same way, with one exception. There has been very limited, and in many cases, non-existent attempts to successfully prevent further cases. We have relied almost entirely, if not exclusively, on vaccinations as the only means of accomplishing this task. Treatment options to prevent the progression of early cases into more severe illness, have been severely limited to the occasional use of monoclonal antibodies. All attempts to use FDA-approved drugs that appear to have some effects in treating Covid, have been severely constrained from the federal government on down to the local level, simply because they are not FDA-approved for this infection. Even a local physician who heads the emergency department of one of the local hospitals had recommended that the State of NH sanction practitioners who wish to try these drugs for Covid-19 treatment. If we were dealing with a new outbreak of some version of the old Spanish Influenza, I can almost guarantee we would be handing out Tamiflu or similar drugs like candy.

Although anecdotal evidence should generally be avoided in making treatment decisions, there comes a point when so much worldwide use information on the effectiveness of certain drugs against a particular disease becomes available that practitioners should be allowed to use their own clinical judgement and do what they believe is right for their patients. This already happens with many drugs in the US. Between 12% to 56% of all FDA drugs, depending on the particular drug category, are used "off label" to treat conditions for which they were not explicitly FDA approved. Even if these drugs are not 100% effective (no drug ever is), if they could reduce the number of cases progressing to severe illness by 50-60%, that would have an immediate and substantial impact on the current crush of hospital admissions and beds until more specific drugs are available. This approach to treating Covid was advocated by a paper from the Yale School of Public Health, Department of Epidemiology, well over 18 months ago.

Therefore, I would respectfully urge all federal and state health departments to stop the efforts to prevent individual health practitioners from using all available pharmaceutical means to treat early cases of Covid 19 and help relieve the pressure on the hospitals throughout this state and the US.

President's Corner
CPT James R. LeFebvre, USAR

I'm writing this piece in the middle of February, as we continue to deal with COVID and the famous New Hampshire winter. It appears to this optimist that the worst of both are behind us, and we are in the process of returning to "normal," whatever that is.

In the following months, the chapter will have two luncheons, one in April at the Common Man in Plymouth, and the second at the White Mountain Hotel and Resort in North Conway in June. I trust that our membership will take full advantage of both opportunities to reestablish face-to-face contact with each other and shake off any cobwebs from the winter blahs.

On the "personnel" side, we have been successful in identifying a replacement team for our long serving treasurer, Roby Day. My deep personal thanks to Roby and his wife, Sharon, for their unstinting work on behalf of the chapter over many years. Dee Fasoli has agreed to step up to the treasurer challenge and, ably assisted by Wayne Balcom, will soon be taking over fully. Best wishes for future success.

In another important personnel change, this Granite Slate will be the final one produced by Marie Chipola. Once again, I wish to extend my personal thanks and those of the chapter's members for a job well done. Her temporary replacement is someone I know very well, Cynthia Ann LeFebvre. She has agreed to fill in for the June and September 2022 editions of the Slate. We must take advantage of this opportunity to find a full-time replacement for this key position. We must also find someone to fill the Public Affairs Officer (PAO) position.

Advocacy in Action (the renamed "Storming the Hill") will be an area of focus in April. Due to Capitol Hill Security measures and other issues, we will be seeking to meet with our Congressional Delegation during their April 11-22 spring recess in New Hampshire. Our contact team will consist of Jim LeFebvre, Laurence Miller, Bob Jaffin, Peter Burdett, and William Luti. MOAA national's advocacy topics are:

- Support of concurrent receipt legislation for combat injured service members
- Reduction of Tricare Mental Health Copayments
- Enactment of a 4.6 percent Military Pay Raise in the FY 2023 NDAA

We will also bring up NH-specific topics for discussion. Anyone who wishes to bring other topics for review is asked to contact one of the leadership team listed above.

In closing, I wish to thank all chapter members for their continued support of both our local and national objectives. I am looking forward to seeing many of you at our social events in April and June.

Jim LeFebvre

Passing the Accounting Eyeshade

Eventually, everyone finds it necessary to move on, and so it is with members of MOAA-NH’s Board of Directors. A corollary might be that no one is indispensable, and woe betide an organization that thinks otherwise.

CDR Roby Day, USN (Ret), Treasurer since 2012, is passing the Treasurer’s eyeshade to CDR DiJon Fasoli, USN (Ret), aka “Dee,” who is imminently qualified for the position.

Historically, MOAA-NH’s Treasurer position has combined three positions in one; i.e., that being Treasurer, Chief Financial Officer, and Comptroller. For Roby, the work was never onerous, but rather, rewarding as a way to serve our membership. The handoff has been complicated by the present, security-conscious, business environment. With every financial institution Dee and Roby have dealt with, the twists and turns of turnover are far more complex than they were in 2012. Therefore, this has become a lengthy transition, rather than simple. A final handoff is anticipated Feb/Mar 2022.

Lt Col Wayne E. Balcom, USAF (Ret) is one of MOAA-NH’s Directors and serves on our Scholarship Committee. Last year, he was appointed Vice Treasurer to assist Dee in her duties. We have had a Vice Treasurer before. Today’s circumstances dictate that, going forward, Dee and Wayne will share the Treasurer duties and responsibilities intimately. Together, they will maintain financial continuity and accountability the membership expects, and we thank them for their dedication.
